The Xaltix team went on tour from Wales down to London last weekend, looking for the latest fashions for the website. As timing went we followed in the tracks of the Welsh Rugby team, all I can say is that we had a great breakfast in the hotel sat amongst the dejected fans from the other side of the water. Our son came along for the trip and we couldn't resist getting him to wear his Osprey's top.

We had an interesting trip into the London Edge exhibition at Olympia due to engineering works on the tubes, better for me 'cos I hate the underground.

We wanted to visit some of our suppliers stores such as Alchemy Jewellery and Gothic accessories, as well as Queen of Darkness and some other accessory people who do Rock/Biker and Gothic wears. We were looking for hoodies,t-shirts, accessories and jewellery.

We found some great new items and we shall be stocking these in the near future including blues guitarist hats, band merchandise for classic rock bands such as AC/DC, Led Zep and Pink Floyd.. We also have some great Bitch Sunglasses from Bio World. We are also looking at being one of the first stockists for Chicago Alley's T-Shirts buckles and other clothing.

Something great we have found are bogies, these are a superb range of gizmos! Get some for your guitar. We will be putting these on the site real soon!! Watch this space.

Anyway after a great day and a quick trip around London it was back into the car and home for about 9.30, tired but full of enthusiasm for what we are going to do this year.
